New Jersey Law Librarians Association
April Meeting & Luncheon

International Legal Research

Speaker: Molly Brownfield
Reference Librarian
Rutgers Law Library

This program introduces librarians to the plethora of Foreign, Comparative, and International legal materials that are freely available via the Internet. In today's world, such information is increasingly in demand with the multitude of legal matters that flow beyond one jurisdiction. Law students, law professors, and attorneys require FCIL (Foreign, Comparative, and International Law) materials on a regular basis, and often rely on law librarians to locate them. This program shows librarians where to find free and reliable primary and secondary FCIL materials on the Internet, and how to navigate them efficiently. Sources covered in the program will range from electronic FCIL research guides and bibliographies to databases containing primary materials from jurisdictions around the world.
